MONASH PENINSULA AT A GLANCE

Monash University's Peninsula campus is the third largest of the university's metropolitan campuses and caters to over 3600 students. Situated in Melbourne's southeast, Peninsula campus is the heart of a vibrant, integrated health, business and education precinct. We offer students a unique opportunity – a globally recognised education in a supportive community setting on the edge of the world's most liveable city, Frankston.

Over the past five years, our Peninsula campus has transformed into an industry leader in education and research, with a focus on Allied Health. The campus has built strong partnerships with the health precinct and made positive connections with the wider Frankston community.
